BGSMath doctoral open call 2016-2019

The Barcelona Graduate School of Mathematics opens a call for 4

Ph.D. three-year positions in all areas of mathematics and its applications.

Candidates must have a Master's degree or equivalent at the time of incorporation. In order to be eligible, a letter is required from a member of the BGSMath Faculty expressing a decided interest in acting as supervisor of the candidate's Ph.D. thesis.

Successful candidates will have to register at one of the Ph.D.

programs associated to BGSMath and will become part of the research group of the corresponding supervisor. The annual gross salary is 16.400 euros. Medical insurance and tuition fees for the Ph.D.

program are also covered.

This call is funded through the María de Maeztu Excellence

Program of the Spanish Ministry of Economy and Competitiveness. The BGSMath is strongly committed to the career development of female mathematicians and therefore strongly encourages applications from women.

Applications must be submitted online before May 13th, 3 p.m.,

Barcelona time.
