

Working Seminar on Kintchine and Euclide and Archimedes

Benedetto Scoppola

Orario: dal 26 Novembre

Programma:

The course will start with an introduction on the equivalence between continuous fractions and the antenaresis by Euclid. In the following meetings the students will discuss assigned material related to the Kintchine book. Next, we will study “The floating bodies” by Archimedes, which is probably the first example in history of bifurcation theory.